Winter 2019-2020

NITCAR is a network of UK infection trainees working together on Infection-related projects and publications.

Upcoming Projects

Necrotising Otitis Externa (NOE) project, Trainee Lead: Dr Susanne Hodgson – NEW PROJECT

A national prospective case series aiming to collect key epidemiological, diagnostic and management data on necrotising otitis externa in adults.

It is hoped data from this newly accepted project will inform the development of a national guideline for the diagnosis and management of NOE. A Delphi process is nearing completion to develop a standard case definition for NOE. Oxford University has agreed to sponsor this study.

Current planned start date for data collection: August 2020

Ongoing projects

National Audit of Meningitis Management (NAMM), Lead: Dr Fiona McGill

Evaluating adherence to the 2016 UK guidelines on the management of adult community-acquired meningitis

Data collection is complete. The findings of NAMM were presented at the meningitis conference and Federation of Infection Societies Conference 2019. The team are starting to begin the process of writing the manuscript.

Native Vertebral Osteomyelitis project (NVO), Trainee Leads: Drs Rachel Bousfield, Isobel Ramsay, Ben Warne

Evaluating the treatment of native vertebral osteomyelitis (NVO) nationally compared to IDSA Guidelines 2015, and investigating research gaps identified within the IDSA guidelines

Data collection is complete. Following a decision on the journal to which to submit the paper, the manuscript will be formatted and circulated around collaborators for final approval.

Complicated intra-Abdominal Infections (CABI) project, Trainee Lead: Dr Shadia Ahmed

A national audit of current practice in relation to management of complicated intra-abdominal infection (CABI)

Data collection is complete. The project is currently awaiting statistical input on revisions.
